Administrative history

The province of Saskatchewan received its first Masonic charter from the Grand Lodge in Canada in 1879. It wasn't until August 3, 1906 that a grand lodge was created for the province in Regina.

During the Second World War, the Mossbank Masonic Lodge #29 was host to the "Hostess Club" which was set up for training pilots from the nearby RCAF base.

The lodge was amalgamated with the St. John's Lodge #106, Assiniboia in 2006.

Scope and content

This fonds contains 11 books and one questionnaire covering various subjects of Freemasonry and Freemasonry in Saskatchewan, such as its constitution and history. The books have writing pertaining to their donation, dedication, and ownership on the inside of the front covers.
