A PAPER FOR FREE-THINKING PEOPLE.

A 'GOLD MINE'... OR A POWDER KEG!

One of our most recently developed natural resources in Saskatchewan is uranium. We've got the raw stuff which seems to be much in demand as a new source of energy, other sources of which our world seems to be gobbling up faster than it can produce. Are we not fortunate, then, to have a French corporation, Amok Ltée, propose a new $135 million mine and mill at Cluff Lake??

On the surface, this seems to be a 'gold' mine; but people are beginning to ask questions about reactor safety, nuclear waste disposal & the obvious proliferation of nuclear power & weapons, particularly in countries whose governments are unstable. Moreover, stability has no guarantee of permanence in any country and the frightening possibility of private or criminal groups acquiring nuclear weapons is a possibility none of us can afford to consider lightly.

Until all these questions and more than possible threats are resolved favorably for all mankind, has any person, group, or government the moral right to develop, use or sell refined or raw uranium....not to mention nuclear reactors (next col.) or weapons containing up to five times overkill capacity???

Meanwhile, the onus of proof of safety is on the nuclear industry BEFORE it begins to develop mines, mills, reactors or weapons...not after the fact!!

As ordinary citizens, we must make certain this is done. Surely we can't take the risk of not being around to blame our apathy and silence if this energy 'gold mine' turns into a Powder Keg!!!

"Small is Beautiful"

Dr. E. F. Schumacher, author of "Small is Beautiful", and co-founder of the Intermediate Technology Development Group, London, died on September 4. He was to have gone on a cross-Canada tour, which included two days in Regina.

His writings have provided a base for a movement towards a more ap- (next col.)

propriate technology; a movement which has gained world-wide support as existing technologies exhibit their vulnerabilities to rising energy costs as well as increasing social & environmental damage. His central theme, that economics must be people-centered rather than profit-centered, is supplemented by ideas involving the role of capital, labor & technology.

Capital--may no longer be restricted to monetary investment but must also include non-renewable resources. It is the natural capital that ensures the continuation of all human enterprise.

Labor---work becomes livelihood instead of a means by which we earn money. The quality of what is produced becomes more important than the quantity of goods turned out.

Schumacher's Design
calls for small-scale technology with "a human face" which would encourage healthy social interactions and diminish environmental havoc.
Small businesses & farms depend more on people than on non-renewable resources and are therefore, less likely to squander our natural capital.

His ideas rest not only on a change of scale, but require a change in attitude toward life and what it has to offer.
The decision for us in the developed world to get along with fewer,
but more durable and environmentally sound consumer goods, would greatly aid the redistribution of global wealth.

The implication of Schumacher's plan would involve conservation and restraint, but whatever we lose in the way of consumer goods, we would gain back in our renewed sense of self and our relationship with the rest of the planet.

MARIJUANA LAWS: UNFAIR AND OUTDATED?

Many Canadians, indeed our associates, friends, relatives, even our children, now have criminal records because of the fact that they like to relax and enjoy an occasional joint. Should the smoking of Marijuana really be considered a dangerous crime?? Are Marijuana smokers really 'criminals'? Is Marijuana as hazardous to your health as tobacco, or alcohol?? Many tests on the effects of this type of hemp have been made over the years, but the results haven't been made public. Why not???

Do Marijuana-related offences really need to be placed under the criminal code?? The fines for these offences seem to vary quite a bit. Possession of 4 ozs. in one court is considered worthy of a fine of $200 and yet in another court it is considered trafficking. In still another, possession of less than an 1/8 of an ounce is worth a $500.00 fine. There doesn't seem to be any specific lines drawn between trafficking and possession. Also, the large fines given to Marijuana offenders don't seem to stop them from smoking.

Isn't it time that Marijuana, its effects and the laws concerning it were studied a little carefully. Isn't it time for a little change?? Think about it.
